Recording script: "Using Claude With Confidence"

About 5½ minutes · 10 takes · read it in your own voice

Before you record

- Keep your level LOW. Your last recordings were too loud and clipped (flat-topped peaks). Clipping can't be repaired. Do a 10-second test, play it back, and check that the meter never touches red. Hold the phone 8 to 10 inches from your mouth, a little off to the side, and speak at a normal conversational volume. If your app has "boost," "enhance," or auto-gain, turn it off.
- Quiet room, soft surroundings. A closet, a car, or a room with a couch and curtains beats an empty office. Turn on airplane mode.
- One file per take. There are 10 takes below. Name each file with its number (`Take_1`, `Take_2`, `Take_5a`, and so on). Any format is fine (m4a, wav, mp3).
- Leave 2 seconds of quiet at the start and end of every take.
- Read the lines as written. The on-screen captions use these exact words. If you change a line, tell me and I'll change the captions to match.
- Slower than feels natural. Imagine you're talking to one teammate across the table. Smile on the first and last takes. It comes through.
- Flubbed a line? Take a breath and say the whole sentence again, then keep going. Tell me which line you redid.

Marks used below: bold = lean on that word · `beat` = pause about one second, so the visual can land · lists (like the red, yellow and green items) should go up a little on each item and drop on the last one.

Pronunciation: Claude = "klawd" · Anthropic = "an-THROP-ik" · API = "A-P-I" · NDA = "N-D-A" · Fathom = "FATH-um"

Take 1 · Intro (about 40 sec)

On screen: your logo animates in, then the title. When you say the Tuesday question, it appears on a card. Warm and personal, like you're talking to the team in the group chat.

Hey Built For The Trades Team, it's Tiffany. beat Welcome to this week's AI Training Video.

Thank you for answering the question, "What's one thing about using AI that makes you hesitant?" beat

You all had a lot of great responses. Your worries are reasonable, and you're not alone in having them.

I'd like to address your hesitations in this video to give you peace of mind while navigating Claude. beat I'll be straight with you about what's solid and what's still a risk, and we'll take it one step at a time.

Take 2 · What you told us (about 30 sec)

On screen: four cards pop up one at a time. Leave a clear beat between the four themes so each card can appear.

Four themes stood out. beat

One, privacy and security. We're worried about whether our information, and our clients' information, is safe. beat

Two, accuracy. We're worried about whether we can trust what it tells us, and whether there's a way to check. beat

Three, dependence. We're worried we'll lean on it too much and lose our own creativity and ingenuity. beat

And four, balance. We're worried about where AI belongs at Built For The Trades, and where it doesn't, so we keep the human touch and authenticity that matter so much to our brand.

Take 3 · The big idea (about 30 sec)

On screen: "Treat Claude like a brand-new team member," then four checks (guide, check, stay in charge, train), then a "coming soon" card.

Here's one idea that makes everything simpler: treat Claude like a brand-new team member. beat

You'd guide them, check their work, and stay in charge. And you'd train them. beat

I'll help train Claude on how we work, and in a future video we'll cover training your own Claude in your own voice and making your process more consistent. More to come.

Take 4 · Protect (about 45 sec)

On screen: four cards (client trust, work account, connectors, recorded calls). Clear and steady. This is the most important part.

First, protect. Our clients trust us with their finances, their people, their customers, and their access. beat

Only use our work Claude account. Never a personal account or a free tool. Our work plan doesn't use our conversations to train Anthropic's models by default. beat

Connectors only show Claude what you can already see. So connect only what the job needs, and ask before adding a new one. beat

And on recorded calls, tell clients we're recording, and decide before the call, not during, what stays off the record. HR issues, family, health, or anything under NDA? Turn Fathom off.

Take 5a · The traffic light: red (about 25 sec)

On screen: the traffic light title, then the red row with its items. Slow down and let each item land.

Then use the traffic light. beat

Red means never put it in Claude: passwords, logins, API keys, bank or card numbers, and Social Security numbers. We keep using our own logins, and clients screen-share instead of signing in for us.

Take 5b · The traffic light: yellow and green (about 40 sec)

On screen: the yellow row with its items, then four rules appear one by one, then the green row.

Yellow is the work we do every day: financials, employee details, customer names and phone numbers, call transcripts, and personal goals. It's allowed, with rules. beat

One client at a time. Only the fields the task needs. Swap names and numbers for codes when Claude doesn't need them, and put the real ones back at the end. And a person checks every name and number before it goes out. beat

Green means go ahead: our own frameworks and anything public.

Take 6a · Your concerns: privacy and accuracy (about 30 sec)

On screen: four concerns listed on the left, with the current one highlighted and its answer on the right.

Now, your concerns, answered. beat

One, privacy and security. We just covered it. Work account only, and nothing from the red list. beat

Two, accuracy. Yes, there's a way to check. beat

Claude can sound confident and still be wrong, so verify what matters: names, numbers, dates, prices, and quotes. Ask where it got something, then check the source yourself. And nothing goes to a client until a person has read it.

Take 6b · Your concerns: dependence (about 20 sec)

On screen: "Dependence" highlighted.

Three, dependence. Our clients hire us for lived experience. Claude hasn't run a trades business; we have. beat

So start with your own thinking, and let Claude help with the blank page and the polish. If you couldn't explain it to a client, don't send it.

Take 6c · Your concerns: balance (about 25 sec)

On screen: "Balance" highlighted, with "prep and polish" next to "stays human."

And four, balance. beat

Claude belongs in the prep and the polish: first drafts, reports, show notes, social posts, and spotting patterns in a spreadsheet. beat It doesn't belong in the room: the hard conversation with an owner, the personal goal setting, the coaching itself. That stays human.

Take 7 · Close (about 25 sec)

On screen: the four pillars, then "Thank you for being honest," then your logo with confetti. Lift your energy here. This is the "view from the summit" moment, so smile and slow down on the last line.

So here's the view from the summit. beat

Protect what our clients trust us with. Check what Claude gives you. Keep the human touch. beat And teach Claude how we work, with more to come on that. beat

Thank you for being honest about your hesitations. beat

Keep the questions coming on Tuesday, and let's go build something great.

When you're done

Send me the 10 files. Attach them in chat, which worked last time.

What I'll do with them: 1. Use speech-to-text on this machine to find where each sentence starts and ends, so the slides and captions follow your pacing. 2. Check the audio levels and tell you right away if anything is too loud or too quiet. 3. Keep the soft music quietly under your voice, then send you the finished video.

Please watch the final video all the way through before sharing it with the team.
